A wireframe of a login form centered on a light gray background. The form consists of several horizontal input fields and buttons. At the top, there are three short horizontal lines. Below these, there is a single horizontal line, followed by a long white rectangular input field with a black border. This is followed by another single horizontal line, then another long white rectangular input field with a black border. Below the second input field, there are two smaller white rectangular buttons with black borders, stacked vertically.
